5. (Amended) An imaging device comprising:
a semiconductor substrate; plural light-responsive image elements defined in an array on said substrate;

5 and means for randomly accessing said image elements individually or in groups of less than the full plurality of elements on said array;

10 wherein said random image element accessing means includes a plurality of first and a plurality of second conductors traversing said array, each individual image element or group of image elements being associated with a respective one of said plurality of first conductors and a respective one of said plurality of second conductors;

15 wherein said image elements each include means for photovoltaically producing an electrical charge in response to incident light, and storage means for storing said charge at said image element;

20 wherein said image elements each also include means for draining stored charge from said charge storage means in response to an element resetting signal; and [The imaging device of Claim
